[illegible] YORK, July 19.—The Evening Post's special [illegible] Saratoga, [illegible]ing of the University boat race [illegible]. All got away on even terms. Har[illegible] in front, being the quickest [illegible] for a few yards, led the fleet, [illegible] with her characteristic skill and energy, [illegible] assumed the lead, rowing their po[illegible] chopping, but lively and effective stroke. [illegible] started with a quick burst that put her in [illegible]. Columbia was not far behind. At the end [illegible] first mile Cornell led, closely pressed by Co[illegible] and Wesleyan. Harvard close up and Un[illegible] and Princeton in the rear. After this Columbia [illegible] up to the front leaving Harvard and Cornell, [illegible] between these three being peculiarly close [illegible] ending in another mile Cornell had taken [illegible] lead for good. One [illegible] set the stroke at about [illegible] eight to thirty nine and his men rowed with a will. They kept beautifully together as they did last year and none of the crew [illegible] fell as were [illegible]. Harvard came next, rowing with [illegible] pluck and dash. They rowed a neck and neck race with Columbia for the second place and won it handsomely. Columbia made a fine spurt in the last half mile, but the crew had shot their [illegible] and Harvard rowed away from them in the last 300 yards. WASHINGTON CITY.

Hendricks Writes a Letter—He Demands a Repeal of the Resumption Act.

The Times Washington special states to-night on authority of some Democratic members of the House that Hendricks has written a letter to the members of the Indiana delegation declaring the terms upon which he will accept the nomination for Vice President. The letter is put forth as the [illegible] and states in substance that the House must before adjournment pass a bill repealing the resumption act.

This action would seal the pledge of the St. Louis platform and bring the whole party over to the [illegible] ground, or so near it, that Hendricks and his followers could profess to be satisfied. If they can [illegible] this concession in advance they will [illegible] fallen on the ground that [illegible] in the way of their scheme since the first important step has been already taken.

Cox' Castigation.

The Times has the following account of the scene in the House to-day: Townsend's speech was [illegible] and frequently applauded by the Republicans. Cox taunted he had been the supporter of Tweed and gave the Democrats of New York great credit for driving the bad man out of their party who defended men detected in crime and [illegible] those who dragged the robbers to light. He was evidently smarting under Townsend's remarks and was not so happy as usual in his replies. He occupied the floor twice in reply to Mr. Townsend, the last time crossing over to the Republican side and shouting at Townsend that that gentleman knew the charge that he had vacated the chair at the command of John Kelly was not true. All this time the members were crowded to either aisle about the seats, filling the area in front of the clerk's desk like a mob. Townsend rose and attempted to reply, but Cox would not yield and the two speakers stood within a few feet of each other, each shouting at the top of his voice and gesticulating excitedly, but neither could be heard in consequence of the pounding of the Speaker's gavel and the laughter and applause of members. It was noticeable throughout that the Democrats desired to avoid debate; that especial pains were taken to keep southern members from obtaining the floor. The transfer of the debate from South Carolina to New York by Townsend and Cox, while furnishing no comfort to the Democratic side, was welcomed by the leaders on that side as a means of keeping Southern members out of the controversy. Cox rarely received such a castigation as he got to-day and never was put in a worse temper or more completely hors du combat.

Report of Committee on Naval Affairs.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The majority of the House committee on naval affairs have completed their report. It strongly condemns the course of Secretary Robeson in transferring funds to Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co., at London, on naval account and charges that that account was clearly in violation of law, which provides that no person shall be employed or continued abroad to receive or pay money for the use of the naval service out foreign stations, under contract or otherwise, who has not been and shall not be appointed by and with the advice and consent of the senate. The report condemns Robeson for aiding the above named firm with government bonds when they were in a bankrupt condition and for sundry other alleged acts and favoritism in appointments, etc. The report says it is due to say that there is no evidence that Secretary Robeson has profited by any of the alleged frauds and wrong practices, although his intimate relations with Cattell cannot be overlooked.

Appended to the report is a resolution to the effect that the committee cannot say in their own minds whether violations of law in the administration of the navy, enumerated in their report, are sufficient grounds for impeaching the secretary for high crimes and misdemeanors, and they therefore recommend that the report and testimony be referred to the judiciary committee, to report at the next session, and if they decide that he is impeachable to frame articles of impeachment, and if not, to report what legislation is necessary to provide penalties sufficient to protect the service from future violation of law.

The Republican members of the naval committee disagree to the report. They are indignant at the action of the Democratic members in adopting the report in secret session without consulting with them. They will adopt a minority report acquitting Robeson of all charges of [illegible] tional wrong or personal dishonesty and admitting that some of his subordinates have been guilty of carelessness and negligence.

De[illegible]atic Caucus Inharmonious.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Tribune specials say the Democratic caucus to-night at Washington was scantily attended and inharmonious.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The Democratic caucus held in the hall of the House to-night—about 70 members present—considered the subject of the bill making appropriations for sundry civil service expenses of the government, and in order to remove the only obstruction in the way of agreement of the conference committee it was agreed that the House should recede from their amendment repealing the provisions of the revised statutes relating to the registration of voters and the appointment of supervisors of elections and deputy and special deputy marshals and touching the supervision of elections. This insures the passage of a bill in which the saving of a million of dollars will be effected, but an agreement does not settle the principle involved in other bills now in the conference. The caucus also discussed political questions in connection with Louisiana, South Carolina and Alabama. It was stated that the President might use military influence to carry the election in these States, but no means were suggested to prevent such interference.

Field Day in Congress.

Democrats in the House made strenuous efforts to prevent debate on Small's amendment to the Texas border bill, but Small compelled Cox to speak and defend himself, which he attempted with poor success. Lamar's speech attracted much attention and when his five minutes expired Republicans attempted to have his time extended, but were outvoted by a solid Democratic majority. To-day has been a political field day at either end of the Capitol, the river and harbor bill and the Texas border bill being the occasions.

Pacific Railroad Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Booth, from the Senate public lands committee, to-day reported a bill prepared under Sargent's resolution to inquire what legislation, if any, was necessary to carry into effect the law which provides that all the Pacific railroad lands not sold or disposed of within three years of the date of the completion of the roads shall be subject to pre-emption at $1.25 per acre, to be paid to the company. The bill provides legal remedies for forcing deeds from the companies to settlers under the above requirements and prescribes a penalty of $10,000 for each attempt to evade it by fraudulent deeds of trustees.

Belknap Investigation.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Evans, post trader, arrived to-night and will testify to-morrow in the Belknap case, which it is expected will terminate Saturday.

Close of Congress.

Senator Windom says at least two weeks will be required for legislation after the trial is over.

CHICAGO, July 19.—The Inter Ocean's special from Washington says: It is rumored that the investigating committees intend to withhold reports as long as possible, hoping in the rush of business at the close of the session they can rush them through without debate.

The Senate confirmed Wm. K. Bliss as district attorney for Missouri, vice Dyer.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Judge Geo. P. Fisher appeared before the committee on post offices and post roads to-day and explained his connection with the prosecution of straw bid frauds, especially in relation to the conviction of Contractor [illegible]. He testified that the Postmaster-General had entire charge and power of conducting [illegible] immunity [illegible] testify against [illegible] no doubt Fisher paid all this had been done [illegible] he was called [illegible] Assistant Attorney [illegible] and himself told the Postmaster-General it was very doubtful about convicting [illegible] before the indictment was found against him.

He advised [illegible] the case to [illegible] to the judiciary committee [illegible] would decide to adjourn at an early day.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, July 18.

After the morning hour expired the Chair presented the [illegible] bill, being the river and harbor [illegible], the pending question being on the [illegible] and Thurman to recommit the bill to the committee on appropriations with instructions to report a bill reducing the aggregate amount for improvements of rivers and harbors to [illegible] over $5,000,000.

Merrimon [illegible] the House [illegible] the imputations by several Senators that the bill was framed in a way to secure the expenditure of money in doubtful districts to secure them to that party. He showed where large sums had been appropriated for works in Republican districts.

Sherman asked what single reform the Democratic party had accomplished since 1860 and said he [illegible] wait for the Republican party.

Morton [illegible] like my friend to [illegible] single good act of any kind that the Democratic party had done in thirty years. [Applause in the galleries.]

Merrimon said in the years preceding the war there was nothing to reform—the revenues were not stolen and the taxes were so light that the people [illegible] know that they were contributing to the support of the government. Now in the [illegible] one fourth of the revenue was lost in [illegible]. The frauds practiced by the Republican party from 1869 to 1871 were so appalling that the better men of the party could not fail to see the evils and a commission was raised to endeavor to reform the civil service of the government. That commission was composed of Geo. William Curtis, A. G. Cattell, Jos. Medill, D. A. Walker, E. B. Elliott and Jos. H. Black. Four of these gentlemen he supposed belonged to the better class of Republicans and he did not deny that there were good men in the Republican party—but they were impotent to control the party.

Morton reviewed the history of the Democratic party and said that the party in convention in Chicago in 1864, with Tilden himself on the committee, declared the war was a failure. In any other country than this that declaration would have been punished as high treason. The Democratic party have the blackest and most damnable record in the history of parties in this or any other country. [Applause in the galleries.] True the expenses of the government had been increased, but who was responsible for it. His friend Merrimon and those who acted with him. It took a good deal of face to stand up in this chamber and say you Republicans did not [illegible] our rebellion as cheaply as you should, and [illegible] said if the Republican party used force to prevent the recurrence of the Hamburg massacre it was justified in doing so. He will under[illegible] the Democratic party—he had been mingling with the Democrats a good many years.

Merrimon—You used to be one.

Morton—Yes, but I left that party in 1854 and I am of age in the Republican party now. Whenever a Democrat wants to hurt my feelings he charges me with having been a Democrat. [illegible] laughter.

Merrimon said he did not mean to hurt the feelings of his friend.

Morton asked who could safely be entrusted with the work of reform if not the Republican party. The necessity for reform always existed and the party was the true reform party which carried on the work of reform quietly every year as the Republican party had done, and not that party which broke out every now and then for reform after a tired extravagance when it got the chance. The party which put down the rebellion, defended the constitution and abolished slavery was the true party to entrust the government to. It was better to entrust it to that party than to those hacks and humbugs who had come down from the Democratic party before the war—better than those who had been kicked out of the Republican party—better than those of Tammany Hall.

Saulsbury reviewed the services of the Democratic party from the infancy of the country. It added the lone star of Texas and golden California. It took hold of the country when it had a shin plaster currency and substituted gold and silver. It paid off the national debt during the administration of General Jackson, and it would pay off the national debt which the Republican party had created. The resumption act was passed by the Republicans with no intention of resuming specie payment. When the Democratic party came into power it would take measures to resume at the proper time and at no very distant day.

Morton said the country was on the eve of a great campaign. The success of the Democratic party depended on carrying Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Florida and North Carolina—states all largely Republican—their chances of success were in overcoming that majority by bloodshed, and the campaign was opened at Hamburg. The other day Merrimon remarked that if his statements hurt they were the beginning and there would be facts and figures brought out which would surely beat the Republican party in November next.

Sherman said that when he heard the great Republican party arraigned like a pack of thieves he could not help feeling indignant, and it aroused the old fire in him. There was not a single position taken by the Democratic party during the last thirty years on which they could take a stand and defend it. It would not do for Democrats to talk about fraud, corruption and dishonesty in this haphazard way. He asked who is it that stole public money. The names, the time and circumstances [illegible] given.

Saulsbury—Look at the investigation of the Navy Department; there you will find it all.

Sherman said if any wrong existed there the Republicans would be quick to punish the perpetrators, though he did not believe there was anything wrong about the Secretary of the Navy.

Saulsbury said he did not state there was anything wrong about the secretary, but there was wrong practiced upon the department.

Sherman, resuming, argued that McDonald and McKee were put in State prison by the Republicans. No Democrat had any hand in it. He referred to the expenditure of money in the South [illegible] it was spent in putting down the Ku Klux [illegible] the most infamous that ever existed. The public money has been disbursed with absolute fidelity both during and since the war. It was to be a campaign of scandal and calumny and reproach. People [illegible]. If Democrats were trying to prove [illegible] at those who had carried the Republican banner corrupt and could not bring facts and figures, the people would turn their backs upon the party. The Democratic party had been crying reform, but it must do something else before the people would trust the associates of Tweed in New York. The Republican party had given the country a good administration and the people were willing to trust it further. The time had not yet arrived when the Democrats could again come into power.

Pending the discussion the chair announced Frelinghuysen, Edmunds and Withers as the committee of conference on the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill.

Allison submitted a substitute for the river and harbor appropriation bill, which appropriates $[illegible],000 for that purpose. Ordered printed.

The Senate went into executive session and soon adjourned.

House.

Reports from the committee on Territories were made and referred to the committee of the whole as follows: Bill organizing the Territory of Oklahoma; bill [illegible] the boundaries of Oregon to those defined in the constitution of that State; bill for the purchase of a law library in Dakota.

The House then went into committee of the whole on the bill to protect the Texas frontier.

The pending question was the amendment last Saturday by Smalls of South Carolina, in connection with the Hamburg troubles, that no troops shall be withdrawn from South Carolina. [illegible] Smalls [illegible] amendment and replied to Cox, who said [illegible] it had been offered for bad political purposes. If it was [illegible] House [illegible] political purposes it was not so with him (Smalls). He agreed with that gentleman that the State of South Carolina was rotten to the core, and it was for that reason he wished the troops to remain there in order to [illegible] all that rottenness. He said he (Smalls) had given the name of the writer of the letter which he read last Saturday. [illegible] would not give 10 cents for the [illegible] man who would [illegible] in that matter would at once organize another band of Ku Klux and hunt him down.

Cox replied to Smalls and quoted from a book written by the late Minister to the Hague [illegible] South Carolina [illegible] Negro [illegible] in which [illegible] character [illegible] and the Ku Klux [illegible] as a revolution of the [illegible].

Smalls asked Cox whether he [illegible] the history of the City of New York. [Laughter.]

Cox replied that he thought the [illegible] part of the Democratic party which [illegible] came from New York and he asked the [illegible] not done [illegible] South Carolina. [Applause] on the Democratic [illegible].

Townsend [illegible] New York [illegible]

[illegible] however could [illegible] to burn and [illegible] whereas in New York the authorities [illegible] the Federal [illegible] still [illegible] courts. [illegible]

a Republican legislature. As to his (Cox) taking his carpet bag from Ohio, he had always claimed the right of locomotion, and he felt the right to go back to New York in sight of his grand[illegible] father's old Congressional district. He did not care where a man was born so long as he was good and [illegible]. The Saviour had been born in Bethlehem and they all worshiped Him, although He was a foreigner in that respect. He [illegible] however necessarily worship the little African [illegible] that came from Cork; and that was his colleague's (Townsend) only devotion. [Laughter.]

Garfield alluded to Cox as trying to laugh the murder out of the case. He wished to know whether the Hamburg case was a sporadic case of mere [illegible] or a symptomatic case, indicating the general [illegible] that the black men shall not be allowed all the rights and privileges of American citizens.

Lamar spoke of the Hamburg affair as disgraceful and terrible, but denied its circumstances were a legitimate topic of debate in the House. He wondered why people had not been struck with horror at such occurrences. He deemed it a wonder that society under the government which allowed such lawlessness to stalk abroad in the land did not go to pieces. He declared the use of the army had never produced a good effect in such cases. The troops always got there after the occurrence. The use of the military power was ineffective, cumbersome, slow and almost useless, and in spite of the good faith of army officers it had been converted into a monstrous engine of political oppression, corruption and intrigue. It was the duty of Governor Chamberlain to at once adopt measures swift and just to bring to justice those who shot these prisoners in cold blood, and if he did that he should receive his (Lamar's) support and praise. Instead of doing so Governor Chamberlain had been rushing to Washington for the purpose of making this occurrence occasion for fanaticism [illegible].

In the debate there were one or two facts that [illegible] came out. One of these was that a body of white men had put to death without authority of law a number of colored citizens, while the prisoners, not prisoners in a legal sense inasmuch as these white men had no right to deprive them of their personal liberty. He wished to say here that no excuse or palliation could possibly be found for that outrage and barbarism. [Applause on the Republican side.] The South had its lawless class as the North had, with this difference, that in the South they planned out in different localities and were confined to short periods of time, while here in the North some counties were held in terror for months and the authorities defied. In the southern States where disorders occurred there were governments of a peculiar character and type. They were called Republican, but it was spurious Republicanism, which had no sympathy with the purposes and feelings of the great national Republican party. It was those State governments which had encouraged these disorders and the criminals by their incompetency, imbecility and their cowardice. [illegible] Garfield's inquiry as to this [illegible] being the occasion for the South [illegible] and strife, Arkansas was an illustration of the last two years of the advantages of a good government under that intelligent man Gov. Garland. [illegible] declared the occurrence at Hamburg was not the element [illegible] sporadic but national. In time it would disappear under good government.

[illegible] debate Hancock moved a substitute for Smalls' amendment, that no troops be taken from any State [illegible] where the public [illegible] requires their continuance. Smalls accepted the substitute and it was agreed to—[illegible] to 93.

The committee then considered the second section of the bill authorizing the President to order troops to cross the Rio Grande in pursuit of [illegible].

Foster called upon the representatives from Georgia to stop these internal outrages and to be active in hunting out the inhuman fiends that crossed the bridge at Augusta to Hamburg.

Cook—They never went from my State.

Foster—They did.

Cox—No sir, they did not.

Foster—[illegible] this, and then sing to us a panegyric on the situation [illegible] talking about your noble blood [illegible] that your [illegible] blood captured negroes. If you have not the ability to stop these outrages, you are not fit to be a representative of the people of Georgia. Do it and we will say Well done, and we will fall on your necks and rejoice. [Mocking laughter on the Democratic side and shouts of "No!"]

Cook—You have fallen on our property and everything else, and we do not want you to fall on our necks.

Banks offered a substitute for the second section, that whenever it shall appear to the President that the government of Mexico is unable to prevent existing lawless invasions of territory of the United States from Mexico for purposes of plunder and robbery, he is authorized, if in his judgment it becomes necessary, after due notice to the government of Mexico, to order troops, when in close pursuit of such invaders, to cross the Rio Grande and to use such means not conflicting with acts of war as may be requisite for the recovery of the stolen property and protect the citizens and territory of the United States against acts of outlaws and robbers.

Cox resumed the discussion of the South Carolina matter. He ridiculed Foster's expression about falling on the necks of southern men, and asked him why he had not fallen on the necks of Pratt, Yaryan, Dyer, Jewell and others, and suggested that he would rather fall on the necks of McKee, McDonald, Joyce, Babcock, Delano and Avery, and would even rather embrace a barrel of crooked whisky. [Loud laughter and much confusion.] When Townsend talked so glibly of Tweed and others with whom he (Cox) had no association, he wanted to know how it was with Babcock, with Avery and Williams and the rest of those men.

Townsend—When did you dissolve association with them?

Cox—I never had any connection with them to dissolve. It was the Republican legislature, of which you were the great trumpeter, which helped Tweed to his frauds in New York. Everybody knows that [illegible] he gave voice [illegible] to help him.

Townsend—You never cast a vote against him [illegible] since he made you [illegible]. You are the most perfect tool of Tammany who has ever been in New York. [Laughter and great confusion.] You had to leave that chair, thank God, at the call of Kelly, and go to St. Louis. Thank God you are out of it and can't get it back.

Cox—You sit down. I have got the floor. When you say that I left the chair at the beck of any one, it is untrue. I was elected as a delegate from my district, and my alternate not being there I had to go, but it was at no man's call. [Shouts of "Time, time," "order! order!" and great confusion.]

Tucker, of Virginia, offered a substitute for the second section [illegible] act on the committee rose and the House adjourned.

Effects of the Earthquake.

VIENNA, July 19.—Telegrams show that the recent earthquake effected the Danube basin from Passau in Bavaria to Presburg in Hungary. The shock was felt at Wittengau in Bohemia, Schelestatz in Moravia, Butrais, Trebitsch, Tischnowitz and Ferran, and elsewhere to the north and south. Limits are marked by Odenburg, Kindburg and Novic Alps. The center movement was at Scheibbes, where there were three shocks lasting ten seconds. Rents are visible in numerous houses in Vienna.

The Situation in Turkey.

The Times says it is certain the [illegible] plan of the Servians has [illegible] been [illegible] continued, and although they fought with the greatest courage they can make no real impression on the main body of the Turks. The strange feature of the campaign is the course of the Prince of Montenegro, who is not co-operating with the alliance, and a notion begins to prevail that the Montenegrins only go for what they can get for themselves. SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—Mrs. Adeline E. Lambert, temporarily residing here, was instantly killed to-day by the accidental discharge of her husband's pistol, which he had left at full cock on the table. She was of a party making a tour of pleasure through the State, recently of Boston.

Attempted Suicide.

The board of marine surveyors have decided that the Pacific Mail steamship City of Tokio, which has been lying in the harbor for several months, must undergo some repairs.

Fire.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—About 4 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the third story of a brick building on the south side of [illegible], between Front and Battery streets. The California Chemical Paint Co. occupied the store on the lower floor and basement. The other store room on the ground floor was vacant, Halladie & Co. having recently moved out. A portion of the second story was occupied by L. & M. Sachs as a clothing manufactory, running a force of Chinamen. The rest of the second and all of the third floor was used by Poy Kee & Co., manufacturers of boots and shoes, employing a force of about 100 Chinamen, about a dozen of whom slept in the upper story. The fire caught in the upper story and made such rapid progress that when the alarm was sounded and the fire department reached the scene, the flames were pouring out of the windows, and the descent by the stairs was cut off. Ladders were raised and the Chinamen who were huddled in the windows and on the cornice outside, were saved, with the exception of three, who are supposed to have perished in the burning building. The body of one has been recovered. The combustible character of the contents of the building defied the efforts of the firemen to do more than save a portion of the lower story in a greatly damaged condition. All the inside of the building is a total wreck. Loss on the building is probably $19,000. The Chemical Paint Co. lose about $15,000; Sachs & Co., about 3, and Poy Kee & Co. $15,000. The building adjoining, on the corner of Battery and Pine, belonging to Levi Strauss & Co., was somewhat damaged by the falling of the fire wall. Kline & Co., hats and caps, and Rosenthal & Feder, boots and shoes, each lost a few hundred dollars, and Rosenbaum & Friedman lose about $10,000 or $15,000 on their stock of fancy goods—mostly by water and the fall of debris through the skylight. The building burned was owned by Coye, of Rickwell, Coye & Co. The losses are pretty much covered by insurance, mostly in foreign and eastern companies, and will probably aggregate $80,000. During the fire Philip Barry, member of Engine Co. No. 4, fell from the ladder a distance of 35 feet and is thought to be fatally injured. He was removed to St. Mary's Hospital.

Suicide.

OAKLAND, July 19.—Fritz Kare, a German saloon keeper of this city, committed suicide at his room on the corner of Seventh and Webster streets this morning. He had been on a spree for a week and his business had run down to nominally nothing. He shot himself through the head and died instantly.

Demurrer Overruled.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—The case of Ah Foo and Ah Sing, who were indicted for holding and importing the Chinese girl Kum Chov to San Francisco for immoral purposes, was before the U. S. Circuit Court again this morning. The counsel for defendants interposed a demurrer on the ground that the allegations did not constitute a cause of action, in this, that the contract under which the girl was brought here was made and ratified in China. Judge Sawyer overruled the demurrer.

The Central Pacific Getting Uneasy.

The suits brought by the stockholders of the Central Pacific are causing them considerable uneasiness. H. B. Tichenor was cross-examined to-day in the case of the Central Pacific against Cohen. The witness testified that in the whole transaction in connection with the sale of property to the company Ralston led him round by the nose. His testimony is somewhat mixed, but does not substantiate the charge against Cohen.

The Springfield, Mass., Republican speaks as follows of the Democratic nominations:

To date Hendricks for Vice President is a mistake. It is the occasion of a good many hesitating voters turning their backs on Tilden. It breaks the completeness of the new departure for hard money and courageous reform at St. Louis. Carl Schurz's German paper at St. Louis turns in disgust upon a reform Democracy that thus falters and retreats in the hour of its opportunity and its power. This is a part of its sharp language: [illegible] Evidently the nomination of Hendricks was a matter concerted beforehand, a bargain and sale, barren of all honor and of all shame, a blow in the very face of all who saw in Tilden the embodiment of honest reform. For the time being there is an end to all honest reform on the Democratic side, and the truly independent citizens who do not believe that they can serve two masters will have to look in another direction to realize their hopes elsewhere.

COSTUME FOR A BLONDE.—A lovely costume was worn at the [illegible] by a Parisian leader of the fashions. It consisted of a wistaria colored silk dress made with a high necked plain waist with [illegible]. Over this was worn a polonaise of transparent [illegible] of a soft creamy [illegible] belt over the plain corsage. The bonnet was of Italian straw with a crown of [illegible] trimmed with clusters of wistaria blossoms. It would be difficult to imagine a costume combining more attractive simplicity, quiet elegance and harmonious adaptation than the one here described. We trust that many fair young blondes will adopt the Parisian toilet [illegible] for what [illegible] than the charm of golden tresses and a fair complexion heightened by a costume composed of the delicate amethystine hue of wistaria blossoms, combined with the creamy tint so universally becoming and just now in such favor with those who rule the fashion world?

THE SIOUX WAR.

Official Report of Col. Merritt.

RED CLOUD AGENCY, July 18,
VIA FORT LARAMIE, July 19.

As indicated in my last dispatch I moved by forced marches to the main northwest trail to Indian creek in [illegible] hours. My command made about 7 miles, reaching the trail on Sunday evening about 9 o'clock. The trail showed that no large parties had passed north by it. At daylight yesterday morning I saddled up to move on the trail toward the agency. At the same time a party of seven Indians were discovered near the command moving with the intention of cutting off two couriers who were approaching Sage creek. A party was sent out and drove these off, killing one of them. The command moved out at once after other Indians seen in this direction and pursued them, but they escaped.

All escaped, leaving four lodges and several hundred pounds of provisions behind. After scouting the country thoroughly in our vicinity we moved at once toward the agency. At a distance of twenty five miles to the northwest of the agency the Indians broke camp and fled so that we did not succeed in catching any of them. The trail was much worn and the indications were that hundreds of Indians were driven in by our men. From repeated reports which I cannot give in this dispatch I was certain of striking the Cheyennes. To accomplish this I marched hard to get on the trail, taking the infantry along to guard the wagon and to fight if necessary. Reports received from this point led me to believe that many of the Sioux warriors were with the Cheyennes. I am now satisfied that the number of Indians leaving the agency is exaggerated in the reports. I am certain that not a hundred Indians or rather ponies all told have gone north on the trails in the last ten days. The Cheyennes whom we drove in yesterday took refuge on the reservation toward Spotted Tail. If they leave again I think it will be to go south to the agency, as they seem to be thoroughly frightened out of their northern trip. Our appearance on Indian and Hat Creeks was a complete surprise to the Indians in that vicinity, but those further in were informed by runners, so that they got out of the way.

I have just received your dispatches of the 15th. I will move without delay to Fort Laramie and as soon as possible move to join Crook. My men and horses are very tired, but a few days of reasonable marching with a full forage will make them all right.

Successful Movement of Gen. Merritt.

CHEYENNE, July 19.—General Merritt, having marched nearly 80 miles in 30 hours, successfully intercepted the 800 Cheyennes who had left the agency and drove them back to that place. The Indians being advised by runners of the approach of the cavalry, broke into small bands and scattered like sheep. Their vigilance and the jaded condition of Merritt's animals after his march enabled them to regain their peaceful agency home with no casualties save one killed by the scouts. [illegible] Gen. Merritt is believed to have, by this, frightened these Cheyennes out of any other further attempts to join the hostiles, and has taken up his line of march for Fort Laramie, thence to join Crook as early as possible. Four companies of the 5th cavalry are here now and will leave for Fort Laramie in a few days. Whether they will join the regiment and go north or remain to guard the settlements and watch the agency, is not fully determined.

Hostile Indians Reported Near the Platte.

A report reached Fort Laramie to-night that 30 Indians were seen this evening 12 miles below that post on the Platte river. Capt. Egan with his company started to hunt them down.

Local Bly was killed near Pawnee Springs, Neb., while returning to North Platte from South Loup with an ox team. He was shot twice. It is not known positively whether he was shot by Indians.

Erroneous Report Denied. Gen. Crook [illegible].

A number of Eastern papers having published a statement accrediting the officers at Fort Laramie with having denounced the conduct of Gen. Crook in the late action near Fetterman, a meeting was called at Fort Laramie to-night and resolutions adopted denying the charge, and, on the contrary, upholding and applauding the general's action, characterizing it as wise and prudent, and that any criticism thereon would be unsoldierly.

Another Indian Fight Reported, Probably Untrue.

A man named Fay, who came into Sidney to-night from Red Cloud, reports that an Indian named Lamed Deer came into Red Cloud on Friday and reported Crook had had a fight and lost many men. As there is no such news at Fort Laramie, where later dates from Red Cloud have been received, we do not credit this.

OR[illegible]ON.

Corvallis will soon have a new city hall ready for occupancy.

The indebtedness of Coos county is $10,241 11, and there is uncollected of the tax of 1875, $1,787 25.

A large portion of the hay crop of Benton Co. is cut, and yields heavier than has been known for years.

T. H. Small, Esq., of Silverton, thinks crops in his neighborhood are a full average, but a little later than usual.

The fruit crop in Polk and Yamhill counties, promises well. Farmers are cultivating large orchards and early fruits are just beginning to show themselves in market.

Lewis Miller, of Stayton, one of the substantial farmers of Marion county, reports crops above an average in that locality, and a much larger area planted than in any former year.

The very latest sown wheat and oats in Polk county are liable to fall short of their average, but at present have a thriving look. In a few cases the growth is so short it seems impossible for the grain to mature in time.

Some unknown party with burglarious intentions opened a window of a residence in North Salem, a few nights ago, but did not enter, because a stalwart knight of the scalpel was in such proximity as to render it unsafe.

From F. G. Lockhart, who has been out on a prospecting expedition, the Record learns that J. M. Sellers has discovered a mine of bituminous coal on the middle fork of the Coquille river, about 14 miles above tide-water. Mr. Sellers has discovered five distinct veins of coal in one locality, upon all of which he has run prospect tunnels. One vein is 17 feet thick, and has the appearance of an excellent quality of bituminous coal. From a number of tests made by Mr. Sellers, he has procured from this coal an excellent quality of coke. This vein has an underlay of 15 to 18 inches of an excellent quality of iron ore.

The Union county Sentinel says: "The breaking of the reservoir, constructed for the purpose of furnishing water to supply Senator Jones' gravel mine known as Camp Carson, seems to have done considerable damage. This reservoir broke on about the 20th day of last month and caused North Powder to raise at least three and a half feet above high water mark. The water came down in a great wave and from the time the first perceptible rise was visible, until it began to recede, was not probably more than five minutes, but during that time great damage was done. The farm of Dr. Anthony being situated nearest the foot of the mountains escaped flooding, but he suffered the loss of an irrigation ditch worth about $300. W. B. Powers, whose farm lays below Dr. Anthony's, lost a bridge and suffered damage to the amount of probably seven or eight hundred dollars to his crop of hay, grain and pasture. Mr. John Davis, whose farm lays adjoining Mr. Powers, was damaged in the sum of about two hundred dollars. Many others, we hear, have been damaged by the flood, by the overflow of their hay ranches."

WHITE SLAVERY.—I recently met a lady who told me some of the hardships of the Printing Bureau of the Treasury Department. That bureau is just under the roof of the building. These warm sultry days the heat is overpowering. At the close of the day's work a printed sheet was missing. As money was valueless until [illegible] could not have been stolen. Five hundred employes were kept in [illegible] to look in the evening without food [illegible] until the missing sheet was found where it never was lost. There was [illegible] consternation among the families [illegible] for those who had been detained three hours had families dependent upon them at home to know what had happened. If any are sick or a moment late in reporting in the morning, even after such an occurrence, their pay is deducted. That Printing Bureau is a harsher servitude, more grinding, more tyrannical than Southern slavery ever was, or what is just as bad, New England factory life. Refined, high bred ladies, however, are forced through dire necessity to accept positions in this wretched place.

Major M. A. Reno, who behaved so gallantly at the Custer disaster, will be remembered by old settlers as Lieutenant Reno, of Fort Walla Walla.

The Poorman ledge on the 7th level north is beginning to show up splendidly. It abounds in high grade ore and has all the appearance of a perfect development. There is every indication that the Poorman will yet be the agency through which the camp will roll on to prosperity.

Gen. Stark, vice president of the N. P. railroad, came up from San Francisco on the Dakota to Tacoma, and will remain about two weeks. His decision in regard to the building of the branch road to the Puyallup coal mines will be final, and it is anticipated that he will report favorably upon the matter.

T., July 8th, pursuant to call, the time for holding the Republican Territorial convention for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Delegate in Congress and for the transaction of other business, is fixed for the 20th day of September, in Boise City.

The stockholders of the Western W[illegible] Industrial Association held a meeting in Olympia last Saturday, and made the following changes in the organization and title of the company: To inc[illegible] the capital stock to $30,000, the price of shares $10, and to strike the word "Western" from the title of the organization, so it will now read "W[illegible] Industrial [illegible]ciation."

The [illegible] gives a long account of the drowning of a man named Nicholas Harrington in the Owyhee river, some distance below Camp Three Forks. He was in company with two other men, en route from Humboldt Co., Nevada, to the Owyhee country, but in [illegible] the above named [illegible] his horse [illegible], throwing him into the river, from which he never arose again.

The following is the [illegible] of the [illegible] election in Boi[illegible] City: [illegible] Rep., Mayor; Sol. [illegible] Rep., [illegible]man; James A. Pinney, Rep., [illegible]; Frank R. Coffin, Rep., councilman; C. [illegible] Dem., councilman; A. J. [illegible] Dem., councilman; Wm. Paxton, Dem. [illegible]; Wm. Rodenbaugh, Dem., [illegible]. The State[illegible] says out of 256 votes cast [illegible] only 75 straight-Dem[illegible] and 68 [illegible] Republican vot[illegible] they [illegible].

The people in the Palouse country and along within fifteen or twenty miles of Snake river, are anxious that [illegible] with sufficient capital should establish a general variety store at some eligible point on the river from which they could procure the various supplies needed, and through which they could ship their grain to a [illegible]. The majority of these settlers are from fifty to seventy five miles from Walla Walla, and find it very inconvenient as well as [illegible] to come to that point for their supplies.

The Watchman says: "From any point where a view from the foot-hills around Walla Walla valley can be obtained, broad fields of yellow grain are spread out before the eye. The prospect was never finer since the settlement of the country. Harvesting is just beginning in a few advanced fields, and in a few days the peculiar rattle of the sickle bar will be heard on every side. The weather is admirable for enjoyable work in the fields and if it continues, the wheat [illegible] will be accomplished without so much of the extreme exhaustion that usually affects both man and beast during the heated [illegible]. [illegible]ley and oats are equally promising with wheat. No part of the valley has suffered for the want of moisture and [illegible] the quality of the crops is a high average all over the valley. One thing is evident, there is no danger of a famine at home whether our farmers get money for their surplus or not."

The Walla Walla Union, of last Saturday, says: "Many of the farmers located along the foot-hills have commenced harvesting their grain. The [illegible] threshers have been busy for some [illegible] ing contracts to head and thresh, and the farmers' wives are busy preparing for the great event of the year, the coming of the harvest hands. Every man who comes to town and expresses a desire to work obtains a situation at once at good wages. There is a lively demand for harvest hands now, and the supply is not equal to the requirements of our agriculturists. Good judges place the surplus crop of the valley at 20,000 tons or 600,000 bushels of grain, while some are quite certain that the surplus will equal 30,000 tons. The first estimate is not far wrong, in our opinion. The indications all point towards a very low price for wheat this fall—the figures 30 to 35 cents per bushel representing the present impressions of buyers."

LOVE AND COMMON SENSE.—Two [illegible] got married yesterday, and they acted sensibly indeed. All day long they were fixing up their house. The woman vowed she wouldn't marry him till she "seed everything fixed." Hand in hand, they were as busy as bees walking the streets and buying provisions and furniture for the house. And at last when all was done the woman walked down and peeped in and said: "Now John, I'll marry you," and they went and were married and marched straight down into a snug little home. There wasn't a Saratoga trunk or a single unpaid tailor's bill in the whole ceremony.

A SMART DOG.—The Boston Traveller says: "Mr. Tobin, newsdealer on Broadway, South Boston, has a St. Bernard dog so sagacious that when a rain storm threatens or begins to drop he sniffs around in proximity to an umbrella stand and on obtaining an umbrella, starts at full speed with it in his mouth from Atlantic street, near Dorchester Heights, to his master's, near E street, on Broadway, and frequently carries parcels back and forth."

THURSDAY MORNING JULY 20 1876

SITTING BULL'S INDIANS.

Of all the Indians on the continent the northern Sioux are the finest men the best hunters and the fiercest warriors They have never confined themselves to the [illegible] and they hated the other Indians who [illegible] Their principal chief Sitting Bull would never treat honestly with the government and used all his ability to prevent the other tribes from doing so From the beginning they have been hostile to the whites and have rejected with contempt all the overtures of the Peace Commission to submit themselves to their policy For fifteen years they have made constant cruel war upon the whites murdering them by wholesale in Iowa and Minnesota previous to crossing the Missouri After that time and since 1866 they have been the terror of the frontier Under the command of Sitting Bull and Crazy Horse they have been constantly employed attacking emigrant trains on the plains and boats on the river fighting soldiers and harrassing the forts and stations Not content with making war on the whites the Sioux also regarded all Indians friendly to the whites as their enemies and attacked their villages, slew their warriors and carried off their women and children whenever they got a chance With the booty obtained by killing and robbing miners and emigrants, they purchased arms and ammunition of the white and half breed traders until, with what they captured they are now armed with the best weapons and abundantly supplied with ammunition Their number was originally about 7000 and, although some were induced to go into the agencies, that number is probably still kept up by the additions to the band from other tribes for all dissatisfied turbulent and unruly Indians and all who were afraid for any cause, as the commission of crime, to remain with their own tribes, or at the agencies, sought the band of Sitting Bull

The Peace Commission, failing to accomplish anything with these Sioux desired to turn over their case for management to the War Department, as it was necessary to reduce them to submission, lest their example should demoralize all the other Indians and make incalculable trouble In 1875 the War Department assumed the control of them Some eight months ago a consultation was held in Washington between the President, the General of the Army the Secretary of War and General Crook, in regard to what was the best course to pursue, and it was resolved to send an expedition against them. It was in pursuance of this resolution that the present expedition was organized

The bloody career of Sitting Bull shows him to be a bold and skillful warrior, and the relentless foe of the whites. He refuses to believe he can be beaten, and declares that if all the Indians would unite under him he would be able to drive the whites back into the sea whence they came. The result of Custer's expedition will, of course, strengthen this belief and will also give Sitting Bull great prestige and influence with the Indians. He will be regarded as a great warrior, and his glory will be all the more splendid on account of the respect and dread felt by the Indi[illegible] for Crook, whom he defeated, and Custer, whom he slew with all his command.

Still it is not possible to doubt what the end will be The war may be prolonged and many brave lives lost before Sitting Bull is slain and his tribe dispersed, but the power of the United States cannot be resisted and will prevail Sitting Bull will either meet the fate of Capt Jack or die in battle, and the sanguinary Sioux will scatter and be lost to history It is not likely their fate will excite much sympathy They were the Ishmaelites of the plains, and their hands were turned against Indians and whites alike To murder, to commit nameless crimes without pity or compunction, to burn and steal, was the habit of their lives When they perish they will not be regretted

THE WESTERN SPHINX.

All sorts of reports come to us about the Western Sphinx, Mr Hendricks He has quarreled with Mr Tilden—he has not quarreled with him He has agreed to accept the nomination offered, or rather thrust upon, him at St. Louis on the platform put forth by the convention which met there he has not so agreed, but demands, before he will accept the nomination, the passage by the House of a bill for the repeal of the resumption of specie payments act He will write a letter declaring his soft-money views—he will do no such thing Such are the contradictory and perplexing statements made about him No one can tell what he will do, or what he won't He was on the fence before he was nominated, but with a strong passion for soft money, and since then he hesitates to speak out and tell what he intends to do Perhaps the reason for this is that he has held such close communion with 'Olebilallen' that his speech has too much Western accent, and his friends think it best for him to spend a few days with Tilden in New York to learn the proper Eastern tones so that when he does speak his voice may not offend ears polite If this should be the reason of course the proper and only thing to do is to wait but if Mr Hendricks is doubtful about accepting we submit he ought to decide quickly and end the suspense of all Democratic Vice Presidential aspirants who may be willing to accept the barren honor of nomination

Mr Sammy Cox the harlequin of the House got a pretty severe handling yesterday from Mr Townsend to say nothing of Smalls effective thrust Usually the vivacious little comedian of Kelly is quite ready with flippant retorts and saucy speeches but on this occasion he was [illegible] role When Mr Townsend [illegible] called him a carpet bagger [illegible] response to make better than that [illegible] the right of every man to change his [illegible] and that he (Cox) had only [illegible] outskirts of his grandfather's [illegible] this [illegible] A great deal of confusion marked this debate, which the Speaker seemed unable to quiet By the way if the Democrats are so anxious to make reforms and if they are as capable of accomplishing them as they claim why would it not be well to reform the manner of conducting the business of the House and preserve better order and decorum among the members

Gen Crook appears to be doing his usual good work Learning that some eight hundred Cheyennes were on their way to join Sitting Bull he made a forced march of seventy-five miles in thirty-one hours and fell upon the Indians like a thunderbolt from a clear sky The Indians were [illegible] by the sudden appearance of the [illegible] as they call Crook and made all possible haste to get back to their reservation which they [illegible] in a thoroughly frightened and demoralized condition Gen Crook is of opinion that no more attempts will be made by them to move northward to assist Sitting Bull Some Indians were reported near the North Platte river and Capt Fagan went with his company to hunt them up and off. Nothing has been heard in regard to this expedition

The University boat race at Saratoga has resulted in another victory for Cornell This contest was one of more than usual interest in view of the fact that Harvard one of the contestants and the representative of what is known as the American or quick style of rowing had recently been defeated by Yale the representative in this country of the English style. If Harvard had won the race at Saratoga the previous victory of Yale would have had a significance which it does not now possess and would have been regarded as demonstrating the superiority of the English stroke But since Harvard has been beaten it simply means nothing The reason why Yale did not row at Saratoga is that some years ago she withdrew from the association and declined to take part in their annual regatta

Brick Pomeroy whose course as an editor made him so notorious during the war and afterwards has started a new Democratic paper He however, does not propose to support Tilden for the Presidency He denounces Tilden as the tool of Tammany, and will oppose him with all the vigor and energy for which he is notorious As to the financial questions of the day the new paper will advocate the repeal of the resumption act No candidate for President is nominated

An item recently appeared in the S F Chronicle stating that the N P R R Co had determined to abandon its present line and select a new one some hundred miles or so further south and that it would leave the Columbia river at Monticello and run its road north to Seattle This statement is entirely incorrect The N P R R Co has no intention whatever of doing anything of the sort

The Central and Union Pacific Railroads are to be remeasured by a corps of engineers to determine whether the length as reported by the companies is correct Whether this is so or not becomes important in view of the fact that the quantity of land to be donated to the companies depends upon the length of the roads

IMMIGRATION TO OREGON.

We are in receipt of the following letter from San Francisco, written under date of the 14th inst. The writer says:

I intend to spend the coming year in this city, working for the State of Oregon, that is, in trying to induce persons to settle in Oregon who wish to cultivate the soil or raise stock. There are thousands of renters in San Francisco who wish to purchase a piece of land and go to farming. Oregon is the place for them. If parties owning lots, timbered lands, or farms, will send me a full description, together with all the information it is necessary for me to know, I will try and send them purchasers.

I will thank State papers if they will please copy. Yours truly, C. BEAL.

W. B. of H.

The members of the "Woman's Band of Helpers" are hereby informed that the time of the regular meeting of the society hereafter will be the first Friday of each month at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, at the Unitarian church.

Persons wishing to make donations aiding to establish the Refuge for the Friendless can send them to the House or leave them with any member of the society.

M. C. DeLASHMUTT,
Secretary.

MEXICAN VETERANS.

The president of the Oregon steamship company has tendered the Mexican Veterans going to and returning from the Centennial at Philadelphia free passage to San Francisco and back, except the nominal charge for fare of five dollars each way; a liberal and handsome compliment, which is duly appreciated by the public as well as by the parties interested.

J. H. EGAN
Sec. and Counselor of National Soc'y.
PORTLAND, July 19, 1876.

If you want a cool glass of Steilacoom or Weinhard beer, go to Adams's Bavarian Halle, Oro Fino Theater building.

He went to Albany—the man who purchased a suit at Fishel & Roberts. We imagine the Albany folks will be sending their orders hereafter to this firm, after seeing that man.

At Central Market, where Barnes does stay, you find the best lunches.

A man had a lot of powder exploded in his face the other day at Amsterdam, N. Y. His name is Going, and his eyesight is gone. Another thing that is going and will soon be gone is that invoice of new goods at Fishel & Roberts.

Go, going, gone to Barnes, at Central Market, for lunch.

A man in Vermont has invented a kitchen range that lights itself at 6 o'clock, puts the kettle on, takes in the milk, grinds the coffee and then goes to the foot of the stairs and yells "Bridget!" at seven sharp. Everybody delighted with Beck & Waldman's new suits.

The Centennial is over, and our country cousins as well as the city folks, have had an abundance of amusements. All who have paid a visit to Jos. Kohn's clothing house express themselves thoroughly satisfied with the manner in which he treats them.

One of the coolest spots in town is the Fountain, where Peter Wilhelm holds forth. He keeps the best liquors and cigars and Weinhardt's best beer. His billiard tables are excellent, and the Virginia pool table continues a favorite.

NOTICE.

The undersigned in taking leave of Portland returns his sincere thanks for the liberal patronage that has been bestowed, and would bespeak for his successors a continuance of the same.

Both Drs. BARBER & NICKLIN are gentlemen in every way competent and worthy of any confidence that may be placed in them, and as such I can conscientiously recommend them to my former friends and patrons. J. H. HATCH.

ADMITTED TO PROBATE.

Yesterday the last will and testament of the late Chas. E. Calef, was admitted to probate in the county court. The following is an abstract of the will now on file in the clerk's office:

First—I hereby give and bequeath to my sister Mary B. Crouch, now of Napa, Cal., $1,000 in gold coin, requesting her to expend that sum as she deems best for the improvement of our mother's and father's graves.

Second—Such family relics as I leave, formerly belonging to our father, including father's and mother's portraits, I also hereby give and bequeath my sister Mary B. Crouch.

Third—I hereby give and bequeath the residue of my property, real and personal, to my dear wife Hattie A. Calef, my son Allen Calef and daughter Almira Calef, share and share alike.

Fourth—In event of the death of my wife before the execution of this will—then I hereby give my son Allen Calef and Almira Calef all my property, real and personal, share and share alike.

Fifth—I hereby appoint as executors of this my last will and testament my wife, Harriet A. Calef, Chas. Hodge, Edward Quackenbush and M. S. Burrell, all of whom may act without security or bonds.

Sixth—I hereby request my executors to convert all my property real and personal into gold coin and invest the same in bond and mortgage for the benefit of my children, until Allen Calef shall have attained the age of 30 years, and Almira Calef the age of 25 years, when they shall have full and entire possession.

The will of the late Samuel Sherlock was also admitted to probate. Substantially, the provision of the will are as follows:

After the payment of all his just and lawful debts, deceased bequeaths to his wife, Rosetta Sherlock, all his estate, of whatever name and nature, which she is to have and hold, all the household furniture, and all personal property connected with housekeeping to use to her own benefit. The residue of his property she is to hold, manage and use for her own benefit, and for the benefit, education and support of the children, as she may deem best, and as it may be necessary. Deceased earnestly commends the care of his four daughters—Rosetta Cathleen, Sarah Francis, Amy Louisa and Mary Estelle Sherlock, to the tender care of his wife. He gives her the power to manage the estate to the best advantage, using so much as shall be necessary or required for the support of herself and children during her natural life, or while she shall remain unmarried. In the event of her death the residue of the property shall be distributed, share and share alike, among the children. Deceased desired that his wife, Rosetta Sherlock, be appointed sole executrix of his last will and testament, giving her full power and authority in all things to manage and dispose of the estate in the manner before described, according to her best judgment, for her own and the children's interest. He also wills and requests that no security shall be required of her for the faithful performance of her duties as sole executrix.

THE SOFTAS.

Writing from Constantinople on May 19th, the correspondent of the London Times says, "The simple fact is that Constantinople is now governed by the nominees of a mob of priests and students—if students be not too good a name to apply to men whose study consists exclusively in learning to read the Koran. These nominees hold office subject to the will of the mob. The question, therefore, may well be asked, 'Of what is the mob composed?' The term Softa, when used in the general sense in which everyone has employed it to state that the movement in Constantinople has been made by the Softas, includes all the persons connected with the mosque, Ulemas, Imams, and students of theology, or of the jurisprudence of the Koran. Most of them are distinguishable here by wearing a white turban around their fez. The last Sultan endeavored to induce his subjects to wear the European dress, and succeeded so far that almost without exception every one, except the very lowest in the public service, adopted it. But the Softas to a man retained the old-fashioned, baggy, slouchy dress which Abdul Medjid wished to get rid of. The trifling circumstance is an illustration of the conservatism of the class. I am not aware that priests in any country are accused of being too desirous of change, but the Softas, who are the nearest approach to a priestly caste which Moslemism allows, are the very stronghold of everything conservative. Under the leadership of a few more civilized men they may be going to become an army of reform, but it will still be true that they are the men who have hitherto blocked every scheme of reform since the days of Mahmoud. Most of them are marvelously, or to one who does not know the country inconceivably, ignorant. Their fanaticism equals their ignorance. At the present time the average Softa attributes all the difficulties of the empire to the neglect of the teachings of religion. Allah is especially pouring out the judgments upon the faithful because the Sultan visited Western Europe, not as a conqueror of infidels, but as their guest. The new programme now under discussion will contain a number of provisions intended for Western Europe, but if it ever sees the light some of the provisions will astonish the admirers of Young Turkey. Here, for example are some which have been given to a friend of mine who speaks Turkish as well as he speaks English, and who received them from a Softa. I confess that they appear to me much more within the comprehension of an average Softa than others which have been talked about. The Softas demand that the Sultan should give daily audiences to all Mussulmans, and that every faithful believer should have the right at any time to hand him a petition; that the Sultan shall be requested to go about incog', like Haroun al Raschid, in order that he may see for himself the condition of his subjects; that only a limited number of newspapers shall be published, and these in Turkish, and the Sultan shall be requested to read each of them in order that he may be informed of the state of his empire, that in future Turks shall no longer be taught infidel languages, or urged to wear infidel dress, but that the precepts of religion shall be strictly observed, and a strenuous effort made to return to the old condition of things when Turkey was the strongest nation in Europe, and when all Christian nations stood in awe of her."

OUTRAGEOUS CONDUCT AT LAFAYETTE.

LAFAYETTE, July 16, 1876.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

Yesterday our usually very quiet town was thrown into great excitement over the shamefully low conduct of one James Dorriss who has been an eyesore to this community for some time.

Yesterday morning he went to Dayton. On leaving there for this place, and in the presence of some ladies, he used language which perhaps was never heard in that town before under like circumstances and which I dare not repeat here so gross and insulting was it. Returning here considerably intoxicated, he soon hunted up a row, which happened to be with Mr. Frank Hoberg, who is a peaceable young man. He drew his pistol on Mr Hoberg and threatened his life if he offered any resistance to his abuse, called him all the names he could think of and then went for some one else. Going to Jno. Clark's establishment, he soon raised the sought after muss. Mr. C. told him to get out of his house, when he, calling Clark a one-armed s— of a b—, threatened to shoot him on the spot. Clark slapped him over and put him out, whereupon he drew his pistol and flourished it menacingly for some time, threatening death to C. every instant.

He next went to the dry goods store of W. J. Wimer, entering which, he drew his pistol and commenced threatening all the parties with whom he had been quarreling, at the same time flourishing his pistol in the faces of all, with the hammer raised. Not feeling disposed to allow this kind of conduct, Wimer told him he had better put his pistol up before he accidentally shot some one, to which he replied that it was none of Mr. W.'s business, etc. W. ordered him out, when he immediately covered him (Wimer) with his pistol, saying if he moved he would shoot his whole head off, etc. He then went to the Essex Hotel, where he drew his pistol on young Hoberg a second time, and compelled him to sit perfectly still lest he would kill him. Mr. Turpin, the proprietor, interposed, when Dorriss leveled his pistol at his head with usual ceremonies. He had no real provocation for any of his conduct. Thrice he shot his pistol in the streets and twice snapped it. If he is here to-morrow morning he will be arrested. He is about 19 years old, slim built, a little stoop-shouldered, black eyes, sallow complexion, slightly bow-legged, rather mysteriously sneaking in his acts and looks, blows a great deal, works none, gambles a great deal, drinks lots of whisky, buys candy by the quantity, pays no debts, always manages to have a little money, and runs with none but bad company. He brags a great deal, but when sober is a natural coward. I send you this that other communities may be prepared for one of the dirtiest rascals that ever lived.

Yours, etc. LAFAYETTE.

Appetite a Necessity.

Appetite is a necessity. Without it, sufficient food is not received into the stomach either to nourish the system or to give the stimulus to the bowels which they require. Both these organs and the liver become torpid in consequence, and the blood grows poor in quality and quantity. Improve the appetite, therefore, and avoid such results. This is most effectually done with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a tonic appetizer and alterative without a peer. It gives not only an unwonted zest for food, but enables the stomach to digest and the system to assimilate it. Flatulence, heartburn, nausea and every other concomitant of indigestion are removed by it, as are also biliousness and constipation. Each nerve and fibre of the body is made to tingle with health by its use, and it is the leading remedy for despondency.

TOM SAWYER'S DIPLOMACY

From Mark Twain's New Work

Tom Sawyer having offended his sole guardian Aunt Polly, was that sternly affectionate dame punished by being set to whitewash the fence in front of the garden The world seemed a hollow mockery to Tom which he had planned fun for that day and who knew that he would be the laughing stock of all the boys as they came past and saw him set to work like a nigger But a great inspiration burst upon him and he went tranquilly to work What that inspiration was will appear from what follows One of the boys Ben Rogers, comes by and pauses, eating a particularly fine apple Tom does not see him Ben stared a moment and then said

"Hi-yi! You're up a stump ain't you"

No answer Tom surveyed his last touch with the eye of an artist then he gave another gentle sweep and surveyed the result as before Ben ranged up alongside of him Tom's mouth watered for the apple but he stuck to his work Ben said

"Hello old chap You got to work hey?"

"Why, it's you Ben I wasn't noticing"

"Say I'm going in a swimming I am Don't you wish you could But of course you'd rather work, wouldn't you? Course you would"

Tom contemplated the boy a bit and said

"What do you call work"

"Why ain't that work"

Tom resumed his whitewashing and answered carelessly

"Well, maybe it is and maybe it ain't All I know is, it suits Tom Sawyer"

"Oh come now you don't mean to let on that you like it?"

The brush continued to move

"Like it? Well I don't see why I oughtn't to like it. Does a boy get a chance to white wash a fence every day?"

That put the thing in a new light Ben stopped nibbling his apple Tom swept his brush daintily back and forth stepped back to note the effect, added a touch here and there criticised the effect again Ben watching every move, and getting more and more interested, more and more absorbed Presently he said

"Say Tom let me whitewash a little"

Tom considered, was about to consent, but he altered his mind

"No no I reckon it wouldn't hardly do Ben You see, Aunt Polly's awful particular about this fence—right here on the street you know—but if it was the back fence I wouldn't mind and she wouldn't Yes she's awful particular about this fence It's got to be done very careful I reckon there ain't one boy in a thousand maybe two thousand that can do it in the way it's got to be done"

"No—is that so? Oh, come now lemme just try only just a little I'd let you, if you was me, Tom"

"Ben I'd like to honest injun but Aunt Polly—well Jim wanted to do it but she wouldn't let him Sid wanted to do it, but she wouldn't let Sid Now, don't you see how I am fixed? If you was to tackle this fence, and anything was to happen to it"—

"Oh, shucks I'll be just as careful Now lemme try. Say—I'll give you the core of my apple."

"Well here No, Ben, now don't I'm afeared"—

"I'll give you all of it!"

Tom gave up the brush with reluctance in his face, but alacrity in his heart And while Ben worked and sweated in the sun the retired artist sat on a barrel in the shade close by, dangling his legs, munched his apple, and planned the slaughter of more innocents There was no lack of material, boys happened along every little while, they came to jeer, but remained to whitewash By the time Ben was fagged out Tom had traded the next chance to Billy Fisher for a knife in good repair; and when he played out, Johnny Miller bought in for a dead rat and a string to swing it with and so on and so on hour after hour And when the middle of the afternoon came from being a poor poverty stricken boy in the morning Tom was literally rolling in wealth He had, besides the things I have mentioned twelve marbles part of a jew's-harp a piece of blue bottle-glass to look through a spool cannon, a key that wouldn't unlock anything, a fragment of chalk a glass stopper of a decanter, a tin soldier, a couple of tadpoles, six firecrackers, a kitten with only one eye a brass door knob, a dog collar—but no dog—the handle of a knife four pieces of orange peel, and a dilapidated old window sash He had had a nice good, idle time all the while—plenty of company—and the fence had three coats of whitewash on it! If he hadn't run out of whitewash, he would have bankrupted every boy in the village

Tom said to himself that it was not such a hollow world after all He had discovered a great law of human action without knowing it, namely, that in order to make a man or boy covet a thing, it is only necessary to make the thing difficult to attain If he had been a great and wise philosopher, like the writer of the book he would now have comprehended that work consisted of whatever a body is obliged to do and that play consists of whatever a body is not obliged to do And this would help him to understand why constructing artificial flowers or performing on a tread-mill is work, while rolling nine-pins or climbing Mount Blanc is only amusement There are wealthy gentlemen in England who drive four horse passenger coaches twenty or thirty miles on a daily line in the summer because the privilege costs them considerable money but if that were offered wages for the service they would turn it into work, and then they would resign

SOMETHING FRESH ABOUT WHITTIER—One of the boys while reading Whittier's Centennial Hymn" yesterday to a little circle in the back room of a certain business house in the city was interrupted with "What! Old Whittaker writing hymns? Well, well! Why, I knew the old feller in 49 in Frisco, and a harder, tougher fightener cues you never saw S posed he passed in his checks long ago And he's alive is he? and writing hymns? Well well! If old Whit can get away with hymns bust me if I don't commence writing missionary tracts" Then the old 49 or gazed with astonishment upon the smiling features of those around him and proposed licking any one who doubted his knowing "Old Whit" in Frisco in 49

A CHRISTIAN WARNING—She was a colored lady and attending a revival of religion and had worked herself up to the extreme pitch of going to the good place in a moment or sooner if possible As her friends gave vent to their feelings she likewise gave vent to her feeling and exclaimed

"I wish I was a June bug"

A brother of sable hue standing near by inquired

"What you want to be one for?"

"That I might fly to my Jesus"

"You fool nigger Woodpecker ketch you 'fore you get half way dar"

The Produce Market

So far during the week the transactions in domestic products have not been numerous or large and prices though low have generally been maintained Wheat has however steadily maintained its disposition to appreciate the advance [illegible] abroad being unusually [illegible] There are few or no transactions to report and quotations are nominal at $1 40 per cental Flour is unchanged but a downward tendency is noticed in mill feed Provisions are dull at quotations and receipts are large Dairy products come forward in liberal quantities and prices for choice qualities are steady Eggs are in demand at our figures for the home trade but shippers cannot pay the current rates Dried fruit is much lower as new apples are being put on the San Francisco market in large quantities some lots have been sold in our city this week at 11½ cents which figure could probably be realized at this time for the local trade Wool which is being brought in in large quantities is not improved though there is no important depreciation in prices the market being quoted as steady
